

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

REPORT.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE POLICE COMMISSIONER, 29 PEMBERTON SQUARE,
BOSTON, Dec. 1, 1906.

YOUR EXCELLENCY : — As Police Commissioner for the city of Boston, I have the honor to present, in compliance with the provisions of chapter 291 of the Acts of 1906, a report of the work of the police department for the year ended Nov. 30, 1906.

Because of the changes made by chapter 291, a symmetrical report for the year is not possible. Under the provisions of that chapter, the authority of the former Board of Police ended June 1, in so far as it had controlled licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors and for the keeping or the use of intelligence offices, bowling alleys, picnic groves, skating rinks and billiard tables. On the first Monday in June, the fourth day of the month, the Board ceased to control the police department, which was then taken over by the present commissioner.

Later, under authority of chapter 291, and on his appointment by the mayor of Boston, John M. Minton, Esq., the chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners, together with the Police Commissioner, became the Listing Board, charged with the duty of listing the male residents of Boston twenty or more years of age. But while in office, the former Board of Police had for six months attended to the license matters afterwards entrusted to the Licensing Board, and had carried on for two months the work of listing. This report will therefore cover for the entire twelve months the work of the police department as such, and the operations connected with the listing of male residents; but, as the authority vested in the Licensing Board is now wholly removed from the police department, and as the records are no longer in its possession, it has been agreed between the Licensing Board and the Police Commissioner that the Board shall report fully for the whole year upon the subjects now under its control. Necessary exceptions will be the inclusion in this report of certain receipts and expenses, and the records of work done by the police department in aiding the Licensing Board.

RELATIONS WITH THE LICENSING BOARD.

By careful and harmonious action on the part of the Licensing Board and the Police Commissioner, the division of the business was made without interruption to its progress. The Licensing Board was accommodated with offices in the police headquarters building, as provided by law. All the clerks of the Licensing Board were taken from among the clerks already employed by the police department, and those remaining were found to be sufficient for police purposes; so that the whole transaction, involving, as it did, the setting up of a new department, was carried through without the discharge or the employment of even one clerk.

The relations of the Licensing Board and the Police Commissioner are so close that neither law nor official courtesy, nor both together, could alone guarantee the thorough performance of their joint duties. They require, in addition, singleness of purpose in carrying out the laws, and cordiality in personal relations, both of which, I am happy to be able to say, have always existed. Though the police department neither issues nor revokes the licenses placed by law under the control of the Licensing Board, yet the police are necessarily, in all matters of detail, the eyes and the ears, the hands and the feet of the Board. At the time of the separation, the police were warned by the commissioner that their vigilance in discovering and reporting violations of laws affecting subjects transferred to the control of the Licensing Board was to be even greater than before; and I feel sure that they have done their full duty.

SECRETARY TO THE COMMISSIONER.

The act under which the office of Police Commissioner was established made it compulsory upon him to appoint a secretary, at an annual salary of $3,000, for a term of five years. The act, on the other hand, left it optional with him to expend for legal services in any one year a sum not exceeding $3,500. It seemed to the commissioner that by securing a lawyer for secretary he might reserve the special allowance for legal emergencies. He therefore appointed Leo A. Rogers, Esq., who for six months has performed to the commissioner's perfect satisfaction all the duties of secretary, and in addition has taken care of a large volume of legal matters. It has not been necessary to draw upon the special allowance, but, as important questions calling for the services of senior counsel may arise at any time, it is a wise provision of the law.

ATTITUDE OF THE POLICE FORCE.

The first efforts of the Police Commissioner were directed to the task of convincing the members of the admirable police force over which he took control that they were to be absolutely free from outside interference; that the commissioner himself in coming into the department had no entanglements and no obligations, — that his duty was to the law alone; and that they, in turn, were to look only to their department superiors for rewards and punishments. The commissioner now has faith to believe that the members of the force are convinced that only their own conduct will count for or against them; that they may do and must do their full duty fearlessly; and that there are no hidden ambushes, from which, for doing that duty, they can be attacked and injured. In six months of watchfulness the commissioner has discovered no evidence of that corruption which is the curse of the police departments of some other large cities. Doubtless there may be some bad spots in a force of more than twelve hundred men, exposed to many temptations; but superior officers, in whom I have full confidence, have been unable to find them, and no person bringing accusations to the commissioner has ever been able to produce a shred of evidence. The watch will continue, and the punishment of the guilty, if any, will be as severe as the laws of the State, as well as the rules of the department, will sanction.

THE NEW JUVENILE LAWS.

The juvenile laws, so called, took effect September 1. At that time the Police Commissioner issued to the members of the force a printed explanation of the provisions of the acts. He also urged them to accept and to follow in good faith the new and unfamiliar methods of dealing with children which the acts established. This they have done, and special reports received frequently from commanders of divisions show that no serious difficulty has been met with in putting the new procedure into practice.

The commissioner cannot yet express an opinion as to the actual effects of the laws upon the children themselves; but his sincere hope is that they may check the tide of juvenile disregard for law and order which he considers the most difficult and important problem now confronting the police of Boston.

Special reports for the three months ending November 30, obtained by the commissioner from the commanders of divisions, show that 725 children under seventeen years of age were dealt with by the police. These include the delinquent, the wayward and the neglected, as defined in the acts. The causes which brought these children into the hands of the police were as follows:—

Larceny,	161
Riding unlawfully on cars,	122
Breaking and entering,	75

TRAVELLING EXPENSES OF POLICEMEN.

Up to within a year, members of the police force who were ordered to other parts of the country or to foreign countries, for the purpose of investigating crime or of returning with criminals, drew money from the county treasurer for their expenses, on an order from the district attorney, and settled the accounts on their return. The present district attorney found that there was no law to warrant this procedure, and refused to sanction it. Such advances are now made by the Police Commissioner from his personal means, and he has out, in this informal way, at the present time an aggregate of $1,550. If this may fairly be considered one of his official obligations, he has no decided objection to fulfilling it; but it seems to him to be more in keeping with correct business methods and with the dignity of the county of Suffolk that a proper sum should be placed in his hands by law, to be used for this purpose and accounted for by him from time to time.

REGISTRATION FOR PURCHASE OF LIQUORS.

It is provided in Revised Laws, chapter 11, section 6, that sales of intoxicating liquors on election days in places authorized to make such sales shall be restricted to persons "duly registered." I beg to say that the practical result of this provision is apparently not such as the law intended. Persons called upon to register at hotels in order to obtain intoxicating liquors treat the matter as a joke, registering names other than their own, and furnishing no information which could by any possibility be put to a useful purpose. I recommend that the law be so changed that the restrictions on sales of intoxicating liquors on election days shall be the same as those imposed for Sunday and for the holidays on which sales, except by licensed innholders, are prohibited.

OBSERVANCE OF THE LORD'S DAY.

I respectfully suggest that in any revision of the laws concerning the observance of the Lord's Day which may be made, regard shall be paid to the necessity for a clearer and fuller explanation of the meaning of words of "necessity and charity." In a city of the size of Boston, with its many important commercial interests, cases are continually arising into which the element of necessity seems to enter, but whether or not to the extent required by the law can be decided only by the courts. The police department has no authority in the matter outside the law, and there is no official or official body with the right to decide in advance whether or not a particular piece of work which seems to be necessary is of such a character as the law would sanction. I respectfully recommend that authority so to decide be vested, with proper safeguards, in some official or official body easily accessible to persons desiring to do special work or business on the Lord's Day which they believe to be necessary.

VALUE OF STOLEN PROPERTY.

The value of stolen property recovered this year is reported to be $125,628.39, less than the average for the past five years. This apparent falling off in the amount of such property recovered is owing to the discontinuance of the practice of crediting to the "stolen property recovered" account a large amount of leased property which had been pawned or pledged by the lessees, and which had never been reported as stolen.

PRIVATE BUSINESS IN PUBLIC STREETS.

The police are embarrassed in their efforts to secure a just and lawful regulation of the use of the streets and sidewalks for the purposes of private business. A canvass made in September showed that 338 permits issued by the superintendent of streets were in effect. Of these, 285 were for the use of parts of sidewalks in front of premises rented by the persons holding the permits, and 53 were for stands occupied by persons having no permanent places of business. The Police Commissioner can find no law which justifies the use of any part of a public street for the purchase or the sale of merchandise. The exercise by the city of Boston of the authority to issue such permits could be derived only from an act of the Legislature. The system has grown up through fifty years and is confused, at least in the popular mind, by the existence of what are known as the market limits. To break it up would be to cripple a large, complicated and legitimate business, which is carried on mainly to the satisfaction of the public. And yet it seems to be necessary that such small parts of the system as may tend to obstruction or to injustice to persons renting neighboring premises should be discovered and eliminated; the part remaining should then be placed under the sanction of law. The police would thus be saved the embarrassment which has often arisen, of acting upon a complaint against the dealer without a permit, brought by a neighboring dealer holding a permit which the police have strong reason to believe is without legal validity. I respectfully recommend a thorough investigation of the subject, in order that the authority to give these street privileges may be established, and that thereafter persons assuming such privileges without right in law may be checked and punished.

CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPONS.

The act empowering cities and towns to grant licenses to persons asking the privilege of carrying loaded pistols or revolvers took effect March 16, 1906. From that date to November 30 the police department received 443 applications, of which 412 were granted. Each application calls for police investigation, for clerical service and for the use of printed forms; and licenses are reissued annually. It seems to be proper that the persons licensed should pay a small fee for each original issue or renewal, as in the case of all other persons holding licenses from the police department. I respectfully suggest an amendment to the law which will authorize the collection of a fee of one dollar in each case. I respectfully recommend, further, that persons seeking licenses under this act who are residents of the Commonwealth shall receive them only in the cities or towns respectively in which they have their legal domicile.

The number of arrests for the year is 49,906, being an increase of 1,548 over last year, and 4,647 more than the average for the past five years. There were 32,830 persons arrested for drunkenness, being 532 more than last year, and 3,717 more than the average for the past five years. Of the arrests for drunkenness this year, there was an increase of 2.10 per cent. in males and a decrease of 2.07 per cent. in females from last year. (See Tables XI., XII.)

Of the total number of arrests for the year (49,906), 1,229 were for violations of the city ordinances; that is to say, 1 arrest in 40 was for such offence, or 2.46 per cent.

Fifty-five and sixteen hundredths per cent. of the persons taken into custody were between the ages of twenty and forty. (See Table XIII.)

The number of persons punished by fines was 11,001, and the fines amounted to $100,146.29. (See Table XII.)

Sixty-four persons were committed to the State Prison, 4,545 to the House of Correction, 50 to the Women's Prison, 135 to the Reformatory Prison and 1,754 to other institutions. The total years of imprisonment was 2,642 $\frac{4}{12}$; the total number of days' attendance in court by officers was 35,254; and the witness fees amounted to \$10,100.47.

The value of property taken from prisoners and lodgers was $65,710.19.

One hundred and eleven witnesses were detained at station houses; 21 persons were accommodated with lodgings, — a decrease of 63.79 per cent. from last year. There was a decrease of about 13.25 per cent. from last year in the number of insane persons taken in charge, a decrease of about 2.58 per cent. in the number of sick and injured persons assisted, and a decrease of about 6.58 per cent. in the number of lost children cared for.

The average amount of property reported stolen in the city for the five years from 1902 to 1906, inclusive, was $131,525.95; in 1906 it was $133,814.39, or $2,288.44 more than the average. In the same period the average amount of property reported stolen in and out of the city which was recovered by the Boston police was $333,952.47; in 1906 it was $208,324.08, or $125,628.39 less than the average.

The average amount of fines imposed by courts for the five years from 1902 to 1906, inclusive, was $99,996.81; in 1906 it was $100,146.29, or $149.48 more than the average.

The average number of days' attendance in court was 34,909; in 1906 it was 35,254, or 345 more than the average. The average amount of witness fees earned was $9,569.42; in 1906 it was $10,100.47, or $531.05 more than the average. (See Table XII.)

Drunkennness.

In arrests for drunkenness, the average number per day was 90. There were 532 more persons arrested than in 1905, — an increase of 1.64 per cent.; 44.57 per cent. of the arrested persons were non-residents and 48.85 per cent. were of foreign birth. (See Table XI.)

Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

The "Rogues' Gallery" now contains 23,325 photographs, 16,754 of which are photographs with Bertillon measurements, a system used by this department during the past eight years. In accordance with an act passed by the Legislature March 28, 1899 (chapter 203, sections 1 and 2), we are allowed photographs, with Bertillon measurements, of all convicts now in the several prisons in this State, and of those who have been confined there and who are measured under that system and photographs taken,—a number of which have already been added to our Bertillon cabinets. This, together with the adoption of the system by this department in 1898, is and will continue to be of great assistance in the identification of criminals. A large number of important identifications have thus been made during the year, for this and other police departments, through which the sentences in many instances have been materially increased. The records of 845 criminals have been added to the records kept in this Bureau, which now contains a total of 29,329. This Bureau has issued 360 prison reports of discharged convicts, containing the full records, description, distinguishing marks, etc., of 117 convicts who were discharged during the year, and whose records were considered of sufficient importance to preserve. Other police departments were furnished with 48 copies of these reports. The number of cases reported at this office which have been investigated during the year is 12,881. There are 16,117 cases recorded on the assignment books kept for this purpose, and reports made on these cases are filed away for future reference. Letters and telegrams to the number of about 2,000 yearly are now filed with the numbered reports to which they refer, so that all the papers pertaining to a case can be found in the same envelope, thus simplifying the matters when information is desired on any case. The system of indexing, adopted by this Bureau for the use of the department, now contains a list of records, histories, photographs, dates of arrests, etc., of about 90,000 persons. There are also "histories and press clippings," now numbering 5,762, kept by this Bureau, in envelope form, for police reference.

The finger-print system of identification, which was adopted in June last, has progressed in a satisfactory manner, and with its development it is expected that the identification of criminals will be facilitated. It is also expected that the system will become very useful in tracing criminals and furnishing corroborative evidence when serious crimes have been committed.

The statistics of the work of this branch of the service are included in the statements of the general work of the department; but, as the duties are of a special character, the following statement will be of interest:—

Number of persons arrested, principally for felonies,	1,063
Fugitives from justice from other States arrested and delivered to officers from those States,	33
Number of cases investigated,	12,881
Number of cases of homicide and supposed homicide investigated, and evidence prepared for trial in court,	62

Amount of fines imposed by court,	8,851 00

LISTING MALE RESIDENTS.

In the first seven days in May, 1906, the police listed 195,446 male residents of Boston twenty years of age or more, as against 195,244 listed in 1905. In the succeeding months up to September 10 there were 775 applications for supplementary listing, as against 705 in 1905. In 1906 the number of applicants to whom certificates were refused was 24, as against 8 in 1905.

These figures of two years show that the enormous task of listing at their homes in seven days nearly two hundred thousand men, many of them in households in which English is not spoken, and by means of policemen who are neither selected nor trained for such work, is now performed with as near an approach to perfection as it is ever likely to attain. This belief is strengthened by the fact that in 1902, the last year before this work was taken up by the police, the supplemental applications numbered 4,096; in 1903, the first year of police work, 3,412; in 1904, 1,335.

It is fair to say that, of the 24 men whose supplemental applications were rejected this year, none was suspected of dishonest intent.

It is a matter for regret that after the 10th of September, when no further certificates could be issued, some citizens of undoubted standing, whose names had been missed in May and who had failed to learn of the omission in time, were necessarily refused the certificates which they desired. There seems to be no remedy for such miscarriages. The full May list is issued in book form the 1st of July, and printed copies are not only to be seen at the office of the Election Commissioners and at police headquarters but are distributed freely to political committees and other organizations, and even to individuals who apply. In July and August, and up to midnight of September 1st, the most liberal arrangements are made at headquarters for the receipt of applications by day and by night. Moreover, the formal announcements were supplemented this year with displayed advertisements in all the Boston daily newspapers. It is difficult to see what more can be done to inform and to accommodate citizens.

There is one defect or omission of the law establishing the Listing Board. Chapter 291 of the Acts of 1906 gave to the Listing Board all the powers and duties relative to listing and registration contained in chapter 279 of the Acts of 1903, as amended by chapter 245 of the Acts of 1904. But apparently chapter 318 of the Acts of 1905 was overlooked. This last-mentioned chapter extended from September 10 to September 20, the time for granting certificates to persons applying for supplementary registration on or before September 1. The effect of this omission was to restore the old limit of September 10, which in some cases is found to give insufficient time for the investigation required by law. It is therefore respectfully recommended that chapter 291 of the Acts of 1906 be so amended as to confer additionally upon the Listing Board all the powers and duties described in chapter 318 of the Acts of 1905.
